Recommendation Letter for Christian Dohrmann

To Whom It May Concern,

I am pleased to write this recommendation for Christian Dohrmann, who has been an outstanding and valued member of UNESCO in Bangkok, Thailand. I have known Christian for over 7 years and had the privilege of working with Christian either as his direct supervisor or as his co-supervisor in collaboration with the UIS-AIMS unit during his time with UNESCO.

During his tenure, he supported senior management in the delivery and execution of all programme activities where he took on a comprehensive range of responsibilities, providing his expertise in policy research and data analysis, strategic communications, stakeholder coordination, and project management.

Christian worked on thematic fields of Education for Sustainable Development and Monitoring, Evaluation, and Reporting of SDG 4, contributing significantly to various education initiatives in Asia and the Pacific region, including project conceptualization, designing and planning proposals, and monitoring project progress, demonstrating his versatility and commitment.

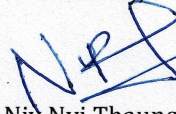

Christian is highly organized, with a proven ability to manage his time effectively and coordinate with various stakeholders, including internal colleagues and external contractors. He consistently delivers high-quality outputs within deadlines, whether drafting reports, authoring publications, or facilitating data analyses. His technical and analytical skills have been equally impressive, enabling him to handle diverse tasks ranging from information processing to multimedia production.

Christian has demonstrated a proactive approach to problem-solving and adapts well to evolving demands. As such, he contributed to the conceptualization, execution and coordination of project activities with internal team members, national partners, and international stakeholders.

Christian's most remarkable strengths is his analytical acumen. His ability to produce comprehensive analysis has been invaluable in driving regional studies, policy recommendations, quality assessments, and developing project approaches in the context of Education 2030 - SDG 4. He has an exceptional talent for identifying areas of improvement and offering insightful, data-driven advice. Christian is driven by maintaining high standards and finding common solutions without compromising on quality. His dedication to his work and collaborative spirit made him an invaluable member of our team.

I have no hesitation in recommending Christian Dohrmann for any future role. His combination of technical expertise, coordination abilities, and collegial spirit would be an asset to any organization. Should the opportunity arise, I would gladly work with him again.

Sincerely,

Niy Nyi Thuang
